

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Editor Roundabout:

Frankfort has at last supplied herself with a long-felt and much needed organization—a Board of Trade—an organization composed of the merchants and business men, together with the manufacturers of this city, whose interest and success means the prosperity of the city as well as the county. The flourishing condition of the one assures that of the other.

Where would Lexington be without her Chamber of Commerce? To her Chamber of Commerce she owes all her prosperity to-day, as well as her prospective future. From the working of such organizations near at home we readily see the result. It is too plain to be questioned or refuted. As is so fully illustrated by the working of a like body of men in the interest of a distant city of the north west from the following showing:

"The present Chamber of Commerce of St. Paul, Minn., dates its incorporated existence from the 10th day of January, 1867 (when St. Paul had a population of the rise of 13,000). Among the early acts and deeds of its primitive existence may be mentioned the issue of the $5,000,000 loan to commence her present system of railroads, which, like the kings of Israel, brought forth both curses as well as blessings.

"The blessings brought St. Paul in 1887 on account of this loan to the railroads was a population of 125,000, an increase since 1880 of 84,000. Aggregate of the wholesale trade, $85,000,000. Value of products manufactured, $40,000,000. Miles of tributary railroads built, $2,486. Amount expended by railroad companies on main lines running into St. Paul, $50,411,333. Aggregate sale of lumber, $5,318,046. Buildings erected, 3,459. Capital invested in same, $9,655,279."

The above showing is the fruits borne St. Paul upon the issue of the $5,000,000 loan to railroads. Is not this harvest beyond all her expectations? Could she have wished for or desired a more handsome return upon her investments? She could not.

Frankfort desires (with the assistance of the county) in a small way to emulate the example set her by St. Paul.

Her Board of Trade has deemed it best for her interest and her protection as well as her future advancement, for Franklin county to take stock in the Frankfort, Georgetown & Paris railroad, by issuing $150,000 of 5 per cent. 30 years' bonds. $100,000 of the bonds to be issued when a train of cars has run over the road to Georgetown, and $50,000 to be issued when the road is completed to Paris and cars have run over the same.

In the past Frankfort has been liberal with her money in aiding improvements in all parts of the county in the building of turnpikes. Her citizens have likewise subscribed liberally to county improvements. And now, in simple justice to herself, she asks the county's aid in commencing this grand work.

What will redound to her good will certainly be good for the county, as the city and county's interest in all improvements is identical.

Many people are against this work for want of proper information upon the subject.

The tax to meet the interest upon these bonds (when issued, which will not be until the cars are running over the road), will be 13 cents on the $100 (tax and collecting the same) or $1.30 on the thousand or $13.00 on the $10,000 of taxable property.

If there be a farm valued at $10,000 the railroad tax upon the same will be $13.00, which amount of money will be saved to the farmer on the shipment of one car of horses, mules, hogs or cattle, to say nothing of the reduced rates, quick time and close connections east, north and south for other products of the farm.

Time and distance saved, in this age, is money, and money saved is money made, which will be the case in this instance.

It will then be verified what the late Thomas F. Marshall has said:

"Kentucky, all lovely as she is in all the elements of social strength and political power, with her mineral mountains, her sealed up fountains of wealth, her thousand sources of capital unopened (opened). Here grain, flowers and fruit gush from the earth until the land runs o'er."

Over this road will all this wealth be laid in the lap of Frankfort, to be worked and sent in diversified forms to the markets of the world.

That day, when it dawns upon Frankfort, will be a glorious day. Her future will then be assured.

"Mechanics and artisans, who are the most renowned of conquerors," will flock here, as they have gathered at St. Paul, "No dangers daunt them, no labors tire."

Frankfort's "population will bound forward to meet and enjoy the supplies thus furnished by their victorious industry." The farmer will have a market in Frankfort for every thing he has to sell.

If St. Paul can increase her population, with her climate, 84,000 in six years, why cannot Frankfort blessed as she is with the special gifts of Providence, do likewise?

It can never be accomplished by finding fault and objecting to enterprises, for want of information, that are designed to work the best good for the whole people, both of city and county.

"Keep pushing! 'tis wiser than setting aside. And sighing and watching and waiting the tide."

In life's earnest battle they only prevail, Who daily march onward and never say fail."

Frankfort! onward! onward! march!! Never look back until thy designs and works are accomplished. Then it will be your sons will not desert thee in thy old age, but will remain with thee to call thee blessed and comfort thy declining years.

WM. H. MURRAY.

The United States Court will meet in this city Monday next.

A Grand Record.

We call your attention to the advertisement of a remedy which has stood the test of more than a half century with increasing popularity and is universally admitted to have no equal as a remedy for the cure of diseases originating in a disordered Liver, such as Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Colic, etc. Simmons Liver Regulator is simple and harmless, purely vegetable, and can be safely and advantageously used under any circumstances. It acts mildly and effectually, and is especially valuable as a Family Medicine, which position it holds in so many homes. We do not know another preparation which can bring forward such endorsements from heads of families and those holding the highest official and social positions. Keep Simmons Liver Regulator in your house, it will reduce your doctor's bill and insure for your families health and happiness.

It seems strange, but it is nevertheless true, that the world contains people who will try to imitate, counterfeit or substitute something else for a genuine, meritorious article, even to the extent of making a spurious medicine, risking life and health, and it behooves every one to look that they buy only the Genuine. Zeilin & Co. have used the precaution to put on the front of each wrapper their trade-mark of a curved Z entwined around the mortar, and on the side the signature of J. H. Zeilin & Co. Frauds should always be denounced and the true remedies only upheld.
